2018 Community Catalyst Honorees

Food4Good

Food4Good, founded by Julius Seabright in 2012, is a non-profit mobile soup kitchen and socially conscience food truck. Its mission is to provide great tasting food to paying customers who generate revenue for Food4Good to distribute free meals to those in need in Providence. Julius is an inspiring community-builder and leader in the health equity movement. ONE Neighborhood Builders is honored to count Food4Good as a community partner.

Roger Williams University

Roger Williams University plays a critical and unique role in the state's higher education landscape. Most notably, RWU's support of Housing Works Rhode Island and their launch of the Community Development certification program demonstrates their sincere commitment to nurturing diverse leaders who are prepared and inspired to build a vibrant society for all residents to enjoy. ONE Neighborhood Builders has enormously benefited from RWU's advocacy, student development, data collection, and movement-building effort and we look forward to continuing this collaboration well into the future.

Lynch & Greenfield, LLP

Specializing in real estate law, Lynch & Greenfield has served as ONE Neighborhood Builders real estate counsel for over 15 years, providing thoughtful advice and timely problem-solving for a range of real estate transactions. Marc Greenfield and his team are consummate professionals, and ONE Neighborhood Builders is deeply grateful for their wisdom and support.
